Hef that the worst of the stringency in European finances is over, and with it the probability of any increase in the Bank of England rate.

Prices are generally about where they were at noon. Trading in the industrials is greatly neglected, this being more marked in the face of the recent great activity. Copper and Smelting both hold well. Steel common is also remarkably steady, but the preferred is off to 126, a net loss of ½ point. Equipments comparatively steady.

In the rails Reading is off % to 161, Union Pacific doesn't change much, holding around the close of Tuesday, 200%. Southern Pacific and St. Paul are ½ easier. Denver has recovered % of its 1% loss.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The trial of May C. Wood, indicted for perjury and May C. Wood, indicted for perjury and lorgery in the third degree, growing out of her suit for divorce against former United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, which resulted in a non-suit, as she talled to prove a marriage ceremony had been performed, was called in the Court of General Sessions today. Counsel for the defendant declared Miss Wood was now on a ranch in Colorado, where she is ill, and that it would be impossible to get her here in less than two weeks. The court, however, set the trial for text Monday.
